1. Skilled Trades EL Opportunities: Renee VanDamme Marcus

- Tech Trucks were set up at both high schools and at the CEC, providing students with opportunities to explore and learn about various skilled trades. The trucks supported SHSM and STEM programming and offered valuable hands-on activities that connected directly to curriculum goals.
- Board staff assisted in running the tech simulators, giving students meaningful, real-world learning experiences close to home. The truck is fully funded by the Ministry and is accessible to all students, including those with diverse needs.
- Students were able to participate in a wide range of experiential learning activities including welding, automotive work, cake decorating, and electrical trades, among others.
- The Tech Trucks arrived with two volunteers, who spoke highly of our students' engagement, enthusiasm, and respect throughout the visit. Overall, this was a very positive and enriching experience for both staff and students.

- Our Real Talk Series has launched, beginning with a focus on what kindness means to students. A video featuring their perspective was created and shared with school teams.
- Our team is working to strengthen connections with parents and build their capacity to support this work. To help increase engagement, students are directing key messages to parents, fostering a more meaningful and collaborative approach.

2. Update from SERCC: Hollie Sparling, Katie Papanyantou

- The conference included an informative half-day session titled "Leading with AI: Practical Tools for Special Education Coordinators & Consultants" delivered by the Future Design School. During this session, the team began developing an AI tool to support PRTs in reviewing and auditing IEPs to ensure alignment with Ministry and SCCDSB guidelines.
- The conference also featured a dynamic Building Inclusive Schools presentation by Sara Vadovic. Participants met in small groups to discuss current 'hot topics' in education, including bus safety, IEP modifications, and the transfer of SEA equipment between boards.
- Anne Elliott, Ministry of Education Field Officer, provided Ministry updates. She noted that the rollout of the new Kindergarten curriculum has been paused by the Minister of Education to ensure it is accompanied by a comprehensive package of teaching resources.
